Roads in South Arkansas Get Top Priority

Little Rock, May 17 — (UP) —

The state highway department said today it was pushing ahead with its construction of high-priority roads in south Arkansas despite bad weather which delayed some of the work.

This south Arkansas program includes work on U. S. highway 82 in Chicot, Ashley and Columbia counties, U. S. highway 67 in Clark and Nevada counties, state highway 24 in Nevada county and state highway 98 in Columbia county.

Chief Highway Engineer A. E. Johnson said the important project involving the paving of a 12-mile stretch of highway 82 between Lake Village and Montrose probably would not be completed until sometime next year. The contract for the work was let April 21, but no work order has been issued.

The project must be completed within 365 working days after the date of the contract award. The speed of the work will depend a great deal on future weather which will determine the number of working days. Johnson also pointed out that a 12-mile stretch is considered a rather lengthy paving project, and that grading and shoulder work must be completed before actual paving can be started. The project will virtually complete all paving on the coast to coast arterial.

Grading and shoulder work on a proposed relocation of the same road in Columbia county is about 10 per cent completed. Johnson said. The contract for this 13-mile stretch of highway 82 between Magnolia and the Union county line was awarded March 3 with a time limit of 180 working days.

Another contract covering the actual paving work will be let at a later date and probably will be programmed for completion in 1951.

The new location will be south of the existing asphalt-surfaced road.

A paving project on highway 67 from Gordon to the little Missouri river was put under a suspension order when bad winter weather forced a delay, but it is now 40 per cent complete. Johnson said.

The contract award was made last Sept. 9 under a 300 working days agreement. Johnson said it is now anticipated that pavement of the 8.8-mile stretch will be finished this summer.

Work on a strategic stretch of state highway 24 from the Ouachita county line to a junction with state highway 53 now is 65 per cent completed. Johnson reported. This project probably will be finished in midsummer, with the actual paving work scheduled to start soon.

The seven-mile link will provide all-paved routes from Camden to Prescott via highway 24 and from Camden to Gordon via highways 24 and 53.

The highway department also has given consideration to the proposed paving of state highway 98 from McNeil to Waldo in Columbia county. This project, however, has not yet been programmed.

the end do it differently? Or, would you fall in line and in time at all be speaking in blacks and whites telling how good you are and what a tramp the opposition is?

The man who didn't follow that line, would be a rare bird. And there have been very few rare birds in American politics.

Amazing as it seems—natural gas, which is lighter than air, can be changed by chemistry into thousands of tons of efficient fertilizer for preserving and reclaiming the soil of our country.

This new development had its origin in World War II when we desperately needed basic chemicals for explosives. One of these was ammonia.

Wartime Chemical Plants Have New Use in Peace

Several huge plants were built during the war to make anhydrous ammonia from natural gas in the Southwest. When peace came, these were converted to the manufacture of ammonium sulphate or ammonium nitrate, both valuable fertilizers. Other new plants were built.

Where the Inch Lines of Texas Eastern have their origin, these great plants are a familiar sight. Stretching over hundreds of acres, their steel towers and reaction chambers receive their simple raw material, natural gas, and convert it into solid compounds through dozens of complicated steps.

Splitting Gas Molecules Makes New Fertilizer

Key piece of equipment in this amazing change from fuel to plant food is the "catalytic reactor," which processes millions of cubic feet of natural gas daily. The catalyst, a substance which itself remains unchanged, causes a violent reaction in the gas and breaks it down into entirely new substances.

Little known before the war, the synthetic fertilizer industry is now an important part of our national economy—and the foundation of this industry is natural gas.

This is a wistful thought but it would be helpful if somehow politicians would be persuaded to sit down in public some time and admit shortcomings and virtues on both sides.

But it's spring again. And about this time every two years — when congressmen are running for re-election — we have to listen to the same routine, more or less. It's always been like that.

But the Truman trip and the Taft tattoo on the Democrats' hides aren't the end of it. This is just the start of this year.

More is coming. As the weather warms, so will the oratory, particularly when the congressmen close up here for 1950 and go back home to get in some plugs for themselves.

So you may just as well settle back for what's coming. There'll be plenty of it.

Does it bore you? Then this is a good time to ask yourself a question:

If you don't like what's happening, and will happen, why don't you take an active part in politics and try to change it?

And if you did jump in and hop up on the stump to get votes and beat the other guy, would you in

Lattimore Says His Ideas Would Have Saved China

By the Associated Press

Realists might not have won control of China if some of his suggestions had been accepted, Owen Lattimore told his colleagues at a Hopkins University last night.

More than 600 members of the faculty and students at the university turned out to hear Lattimore, who believes he is a "loyal American."

Lattimore, a Hopkins professor, has been the main target of Senate McCarthy (R-Wis.) The senator has called Lattimore the top spy in the United States.

Lattimore said that he shaped this country's Far East policy.

He was no shaper of a static Far East, Lattimore said. In fact, he said, if some of his ideas had been accepted, they might have prevented the American position in the Far East from becoming "so dangerously exposed to further Russian advances."

Lattimore, who is director of the university's Walter Hines Page School of Journalism, said he was "very heavily applauded" by his listeners.

A university spokesman said Lattimore, present at any meeting since the McCarthy hearings, was "a George Boggs, chairman of the philosophy department, in a roomed Lattimore."

The basic theme running through Lattimore's talk was: "It might happen to any one of us."

Mrs. James Birkhead read an interesting letter from a Wollerman telling of her return to Brazil. Mrs. Tollett gave a review of the first chapter of the Mission book "For Christ in China" by Archibald M. McMillan, after which she served a delicious salad plate to eight members.

DOROTHY DIX

'Bad Sport'

Dear Miss Dix: How can I be a good sport and still be a good and decent mother? My husband runs with a wild crowd and wants me to do as the others do, go to cheap joints and drink until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning. Aren't parents supposed to set any examples for good nowadays to their children? Am I prudish and old-fashioned to object to going with my husband to such places? Should I do as the others do because it will please my husband?

M. N.
Answer: Being a good mother is a lot more important than being a good sport, if your sportsmanship is measured by the amount of liquor you can drink. Nor is any woman called upon to lower her standards of conduct to show her love for her husband.

Don't Be Too Prudish

Of course, it doesn't do for a woman who has a gay, pleasure-loving husband to be too puritanical. He must have his fling and as long as that consists of innocent fun his wife should go along with him, but when he insists upon her accompanying him to cheap dives and taking part in drinkfests that last until morning she does well to refuse. No good comes of that to either one. No woman has ever retained her husband's love by getting drunk with him, but many a wife has kept her husband's respect by refusing to do so.

As for the value of the example that parents set for their children, it is the most important thing in the world. It is the influence that molds their characters. It is the thing that shapes their lives. All of the preachments go for naught. It is the things they see their fathers and mothers do that they imitate. It is especially important that children's mothers should set them a good example. They must believe in her as the embodiment of every virtue, and when they lose this faith they have no anchor to hold to. Social workers tell us that when children find out that their mother is immoral, or if they have a mother who gets drunk, it simply shatters their whole morale and they go to pieces themselves.

So set your children a good example, if they have a father who sets them a bad one, it is all the more important that you should keep your standards high.

Dear Miss Dix: I am 23 and have been engaged to a boy for nearly five years. He has a fairly good job and does everything possible for me. For the last year, because of conditions in his family, we have been unable to go about much unless I financed the party, which he refused to let me do. Hence we have spent our evenings at my home and I don't understand whether seeing him constantly for four nights a week and doing nothing in particular is to blame for my picking on him about everything and really being unkind to him, or whether I am slowly losing interest in him. He loves me and I love him, but we don't get along together as well as we did.

L. F.
Answer: I think that you are just fed up on each other's society, and that if you would see each other for one night a week instead of four you would find that your appetite for each other had returned.

You see when you stepped out two or three times a week to some place of amusement you had the diversion of seeing other people of light and motion that gave you new sensations; the interest of seeing a movie; the thrill and excitement of a dance. But when you couldn't do this, when you had to sit at home with nothing to do but talk, you simply talked out and began to bore each other, and that led to your picking flaws in each other.

You may well fear that if you find quiet evenings together so dreary now you will find marriage still more tedious. For that will mean practically every evening, still more tedious. For that will spent at home, with no livelier amusement than each other's company.

So consider well before you let yourself into a lifetime of companionship that will have few thrills in it.

Dear Miss Dix: I am 21. The girl is 20. We think we are deeply in love with each other, but our friends say we are not because we both have other dates. We think we are both too young to settle down to each other. What do you think?

BOY AND GIRL
Answer: I think that young people are very foolish to cut themselves off from all association with other boys and girls until they are old enough to do but talk, you simply ding day set. You two are taking the proper course.

Atlanta Clings to Lead in Southern

By the Associated Press

After Nashville had played 28 games last year the pennant leading Vols were a miserable seventh place team in the Southern association.

Atlanta was king then and Mobile and Birmingham were just one and two steps away from the throne.

After the first one-fifth of the season they all but Nashville slipped. The Vols came home champions again.

Now Nashville is in seventh place again after its first 28 games. Atlanta leads, and again Birmingham and Mobile are just behind.

Will the remainder of the season go as that one last year with Nashville driving to the top?

Nashville may have given part of its answer Tuesday when General Manager Larry Gilbert announced that Carl Sawatski would join the Vols in Little Rock Wednesday.

Sawatski was the Southern's most valuable player last year and he was one of the men most responsible for the Vols' leap from seventh place to the top. He batted in 153 runs hit 45 homers and his average was .360.

He comes to the Vols on 24-hour recall from the Chicago Cubs.

Tuesday night Mobile gave Atlanta its first shutout of the season, 2-0, in the first game of a double-header, but the Crackers came back in the second game to win, 8-4.

In the only other game of the night, Memphis defeated Little Rock, 8-6. The victory lifted Memphis above New Orleans into fourth place.

Mobile's split left the Bears in a tie with Birmingham for second. Pete Wojey was the first pitcher to hold Atlanta runless and he never was in trouble as he allowed only two hits.

In the late game Atlanta got together 15 hits to give four Mobile pitchers a hard round. The game was called after eight innings to allow time to catch trains.

Shortstop Hal Daugherty played his first complete game for Little Rock. He was injured in Memphis opening night when he banged into a grandstand.

Memphis and Little Rock made five double plays. A wild pitch and a bad ball hop cost Little Rock three runs in the ninth inning when the score was tied.

Wednesday night's games: New Orleans at Atlanta, Mobile at Birmingham, Nashville at Little Rock, Chattanooga at Memphis.

End Of The Line

Sponsors of the Colonial Invitation golf tournament at Fort Worth, Tex., boast that their selected 30-man field includes winners of 40 per cent of the money awards in all 18 big tournaments held so far this year.

Joe Bach's St. Bonaventure footballers trimmed Syracuse 38-29 in their second scrimmage after they had scored about as freely in the first.

This led Syracuse Coach Ben Schwartzwalder to remark plaintively: "Defense? I guess he was one of those substitutes who stayed on the bench."

New Turk Rule to Stand With West Allies

Istanbul, Turkey, May 16 — (AP) — Turkey's new strong man, Celal Bayar, said today his nation's newly elected government stands loyal to its alliances and friendships with the Western world.

He gave his pledge in an interview after disclosing his five-year-old Democrat party had already taken 375 of the 487 grand national assembly seats in Sunday's general election.

The Democrats' triumph left in ruins President Ismet Inonu's People's party, which has ruled Turkey for 27 years.

With returns still awaited from some provinces, some observers said Inonu's group might have no more than 80 seats when the assembly meets next Monday to elect a new president.

Turkey receives American military aid under the Truman doctrine and economic assistance under the Marshall plan. Though not a signer of the Atlantic pact, Turkey also has been frequently mentioned unofficially as seeking membership in the alliance.

Bayar said his party "shall definitely be most loyal to our alliances and friendships."

By contract the American idea is to set up a super-command under the Atlantic pact to weld together the armed forces of the 12 members while at the same time looking out for their economic strength and possibly for closer political ties.

Here curious visitors will find the first printing press brought west of the Mississippi River, in addition to hundreds of exact replicas of furnishings of a long-age day and age in Arkansas history. It is well worth the visit of anyone interested in Arkansas history, as the first territorial capitol has been completely restored, along with other buildings of the era. There is a small admission charge which goes into a fund for upkeep of these valuable old buildings. Visitors to Little Rock should avail themselves of the opportunity of visiting all three capitols, which depict the growth of the state through the lines of its architecture.

Fear Surging Northern Red

Winnipeg, Man., May 17 --(A) Light rains over the flood-soaked Winnipeg area today increased fears that weakening dikes might let the surging Red river inundate the city.

The Red river and its tributaries were steady this morning at 10 feet after rising one-tenth of a foot early last night.

But after several hours of showers last night, deputy Flood C. trooller O. M. M. Kay termed weather conditions "definitely harmful." The drizzles, he said, "will keep the roads very slippery."
